HEADQUARTERS CAVALRY BRIGADE, MONTICELLO, KY., April 14, 1863. DEAN REGISTEN: Perhaps an inkling from the "dark and bloody ground" would not be uninteresting, yet so much has been written from this brigade within the past iew days that I am almost ashamed to write.

On the 8th inst, we left Kingston under the command of the reallest Runger, with Major

On the 8th inst, we left Kiugston under the command of the gallant Rucker, with Major Phipp's bittalion and other detachments of our brigade. The first day's march was not fraught with anything of particular interest. A few miles from Montgomery we met the brave and gallant Hosper, Lient. Colonel of the 1st Georgia Cavalry, who gave ns some interesting news from the brigade. Near Wintersting news from the brigade. Near Wintersting news from the south of the steroid with the latter of whom was suffering severely from the latter of whom was suffering severely from the latter of whom was suffering severely from a wound in the hand received near Somerset. His actions were truly praiseworthy. A Fed-eral soldier caught his bridle and told him to surrender. He frankly remarked that "Scott's Lieut. Colonel never surrenders," at the sam time drew his pistol and shot his autagonist time drew his pistol and shot his autagonist; both firing the same instant, hence his wound. Cheer after cheer was given complimentary to Col. Scott and Lieut. Col. Nixon by the command as it passed by those gentlemen. We also met Capt. Owens, who was suffering much from a severe wound he had received. He was enduring his wounds with heroic fortitude.

enduring his wounds with heroic fortitude. He is a noble spirit.

About 3 o'clock of the 9th, a heavy volley of musketry aroused the sleeping troopers from their slumbers; soon the entire command wns in line of battle, only awaiting the anticipated foe. But they did not come—belonged to the bushwhacking corps. The promptness with which Major Phipps's command formed in line of battle for the anticipated attack is enough to effect the applause of any observer, and reflects much credit on the officers of the hattalion. It is to be hoped that this command will soon be increased to a regiment. There are officers in it who merit promotion. Near Clear Fork the bushwhacking fraternity prepared themselves for a general eegagemeut, seemingly. But the cautious Rucker was too sharp for the dastardly scoundrels. Dismountsharp for the dastardly scoundrels. Dismounting Captains Lyous's and Jackson's companies as skirmishers, and Capt. Day's as an advance into the dangerous gorge, he soon put them to flight. One fellow was caught, who said that he was hunting cattlel Guess he

We passed from thence into Kentucky without any further molestation. Houses and plantations along the entire route are mostly desolated, only a few relies of former industry and civilization remaining. Dead horses lay scattered along the road, tokens of some bloody strife of days gone by, whilst ravens flying through the air uttering their mournful croakings, mingled with the whistling winds of the trembling forests, reflected anything but a pleasant sensation on the minds of Saturday, the 11th, the fourth day's march and we are in camp, surrounded by hundreds of anxious soldiers asking for letters, registers anxious soldiers asking for letters, registers, news from Dixie, &e.,—all in a high state of conthusiasm and glee, which was truly gratifying to us. I met only two Southern families from the time we left the river at Kingston; and who was one of them but the mother of the gallant young Triplett, Adjutant of Colonel Rowan's regiment at Vicksburg. She asked for news from Vicksburg, when I told her that I had bad news, as I had seeu a notice of the death of a soldier at that place by her name. It seemed to ue that her heart would name. It seemed to use that her heart would burst with grief. What a scenel An aged lady, who had passed through the troubles and sorrows of fifty years, trembling ou the verge of the tomb, whilst down her aged-stricken entifie world of cheek stole the tear of affection for an only son. Who knows the affection of a mother? What feelings of delight flit through her mind. She went on her way rejoicing "through the desert wild," to her mountain home, invoking Heaven's purest blessings and protection for our soldier boys. Long life, peace, and pleu-

and flour for our own consumption, having "run the gauntlet," as it is termed, in coming through the mountains. But every man was on the alert for the safety of his own scalp. You would have thought every soldier a poct, an artist, or an enthusiastic admirer of natural scenery, had you been with us, for I assure you the wood adjacent to the road was well canned by all.

This continued observation of towering cliffs, clusters of cedar, laurel groves, ivy thickets, concenling deep ravines, were not viewed so much from a sense of admiration as from that of personal security, for

The coveardly but dreaded foe.

'Tis said that "distance lends enchantment to the view;" equally so does imagination lend fear to the mind when marching through such a country. We might be considered among our friends, who do everything in their power to make us comfortable. They are generous and kind. I shall speak more of this in my next. Our brignde is in fine spirits and engar for another campaign. You have long since received the full particulars of Gen. Pegrnm's raid, the casualties attending it, &c., hence I shall not allude to it. We have no anticipation of an attack from the enemy. They say they don't care if we eat this country out.

Our pickets and those of the enemy cross the P.S. Since writing the above, intelligence has been received of the arrival of Burnside' post-paid with two five-cent stamps, but withmission to send it to its destination by a flag of trace, but then Gen. Pegram would never know what a good opinion Bird had of him or hear the praises which are lavished upon the good conduct of his "cutthroats and outlaws;" nor would Ashby be aware that he acted the fool by his rash resignation. So the Knoxville Register's Bird must sing to its ears through our columns:

HEAOQUARTERS CAVALRY BAIGADE, Monticello, Ky., April 17, 1863.

J. A. Speary-Esteemed Friend: I send you through Col. Chenault, Post-Commander here, a short letter. So much has been written with reference to Gen. Pegram's raid that I am ashamed to mention it, to the public es-ram assaured to mention it, to the public especially.

I have seen no report of the engagement printed, only in Federal papers. They give a true version of the raid, with but a few exceptions. Pegram had 18 men killed on the field; several have died since; near 200 men were captured; among the number a considerable sprinkle of commissioned of second erable sprinkle of commissioned officers.
The disgraceful manner in which our soldier acted whilst in Danville and other little town as well as on the rond, is enough to disgrace and make odious the name of any command. The Cincinnati Commercial of the 9th very trutbful-ly remarks that Gen. Pegram had rendered his name more odious in four or five days' marcing the State of Kentucky than Morgan i all his raids. Stores were rifled with impunity Ladies were taken from their horses so the the lazy scoundrels could get something to trade and traffic in. I do not mean to say that Gen. P. did this. His command was guil that Gen. P. did this. His command was guilty of it—hence the blame rests on him.

Black-hearted, cowardly speculators followed in the train of our brigade, and so soon as a place was captured and danger was far off, these moncy thieves would be the first ones in the storehouses plundering. Too cowardly to fight, but not too much site steet that the storehouses plundering. Too cowardly to fight, but not too much so to steal.

Men known to be truly "secesh" in their feelings have been robbed of all their horses. Some of the best farmers in this country are ploughing with cattle—have not got mules.

Should this revolution close shortly, there will ever be a lasting animosity existing hetween Kentuckians and Tennessecans.

Unless General Pegram enforces the strictest discipline henceforth, his command will prove themselves to be a band of cutthroats and outlaws. He is much admired, but he is too lenient. No one has anything against him but some aspiring Golonels. In fact there can be no objection found to him, only his want of discipline. Ashby acted the fool, and resigned. He is too easily exeited; and too quick and rash in a conclusion. He will rue his actions. News from Abolitiondom report their tions. sent from the Rangers' camp near Alexandria, Tenn. His effusion is written on a leaf from some old ledger, on both sides and very small, out his lies are huge ones on all sides. It is lated April 17th, and he seemed to think his officers were preparing to go into Kentucky, out he is not certnin, for the "great men" keep uch things from "we little folks." By a computation of his lies, from the 12th to 17th ult., the rebels had taken more prisoners and spoils than they have secured during the past year. Both trunks were full of very fine jewelry. This violntion of the revenue laws was so plnin that the property was at once taken possession of and turned over to Major Robinson, Surveyor of the Port. It is valued nt from $30,000 to $35,000. The owner is from Philadelphia. It was evidently his intention to smuggle his stock through the lines to the Southern Confederacy.

Col. Jno. W. Foster has just returned to Henderson from a tour through Caldwell, Lyou, Crittenden, Union, and other counties in his department (Kentucky). MUNFGROVILLE, KY., April 29, 1863. To the Editors of the Louisville Journal: The following question has often been pro-ounded to me, and has been the subject of meh discussion in society:
What is the issue of novel reading?

It is, in my opinion, simply this, that by the reading of them we are led to reflect upon the various modes of writing and address, and we are neable to conceive of the different chan-nels through which n thorough knowledge of all things are to be obtained, and teaches one now the world may be sifted of all things not real, and perceives at once (when this is done)
the true state of of the realities of life, and ugments the aspiration of the mind to diseern the difference between reality and fiction And there is contained in novels of a good character the most refined language the world ever knew. Therefore it teaches one to love ever knew. Therefore it teaches one to love good language, good society, and refinement of taste. Moreover it of depicts to the mind nature in its most beautiful form, and causes one to dwell with interest upon the wisdom of God in the construction of all things, so not render everything in nature's garh of service to the reflecting mind. For an instance, take the soldier's life for example; deprive him of the liberty of reading such books as his him of the liberty of reading such books as his laste demands, and at once he becomes indo-lent; but the impulse of his mind leads him to some employment, that he may assnage the sorrow and grief which arises when he has nothing real or fictitious to engage his attention. Then one becomes sensible o his perilous condition, which distracts the mind, and frenzics the brain beyond en durance. But let the soldier who sees hi situation in this light have plenty of reading matter to solicit attention and interest, and he can hask in the sunships of lave and admire ean bask in the sunshine of love and admira-tion. He is tanght by the consideration of the different subjects presented to him to ad-mire all things that are naturally beautiful and to appreciate the rich productions of the best writers of our land. He can convers more fluently upon the various subjects tha may be introduced as a theme of conversation may be introduced as a theme of conversation. TUESDAY, MAY 5, 1863.

The Louisville Democrat of Sunday contains the following article: "COPPERIEAD" PLATFORM. - The Rock Island Argus, a Democratic daily paper that is never wrong, and consequently always exercises a large influence, raises the following copperhead platform, and we hope that all our people, copperheads and all others, will not only adopt it, but live up to it: "OUR COPPERHEAD PLATFORM.

11. In favor of prosecuting the war with the utmost vigor upon the rebels in arms against the government of the United States, until the rebellious States will negotiate for peace on terms by which the whole Union can When the times arrives, stop fighting and arrange for peace on that basis, giving the South full security that her rights, under the Constitution of the United States, shall be

In favor of maintaining the supremacy of the civil over the military power of the gov-ernment, outside of the immediate spiere of military operations in the field.

14. In favor of maintaining all the provisions of the Constitution of the United States, and of the Constitutions of the several States.

"5. In favor of enforcing all the laws of the United States, and of the several States.

"6. In favor of maintaining free speech, a free press, free courts, and free elections. "7. In favor of maintaing the right to criticise any measure or act of the constituted authorities, and the right of the people to peaceably assemble to consult as to the public good, petition for redress of grievances.

"8. In favor of putting down the rebellion by bullets, and abolitionism by hallots. Opposed to the abolition polices of the Administration, as tending to prolong the war, and hopelessly divide the Union.

"10. Opposed to the dishonesty and extravagance of those in office under A be Lincoln; opposed to the indolence and imbecile management of the war; opposed to using our brav soldiers to protect officers and their friends i speculation and plunder; opposed to the reek-less partisanship of the Administration—and in favor of the Union, the Constitution, and of orcement of the Laws."

Will any one point out any objection to this platform, embracing, as it does, the true prin-ciples of freedom and the means of earrying on the war? It is upon this the Democracy of Illinois stand, and it is just where we stand to-day. The platform is good in spite of the

Yes, neighbor, the platform is good in spite of the name, and we are not more surprised than delighted to receive your assurance that "it is just where" you "stand to-day"; for it certainly is not by a great deal where you stood a few days ago, when you said with began; for, be it remembered, the Union parsuch defiaut emphasis:

We say not not another dollar nor another man can they get with our consent. Kentucky owes it to her past declaration to take taks position unequivocally. But this is surrendering to the rebellion they say. If it be go, then we shall have the consolation of knowing that the rebellion succeeded rather spite of both of these factions. And fortunate through our devotion to the great principles of constitutional freedom than because of our departure from the established limits of the government and a violation of all the enlightened dictates of humnnity.

Herein, as for that matter in all your other declarations on the point for the preceding month or so, you avowed vourself in favor of opposing "the abolition policies of the Administration," if other modes of opposition should not prevail at once, by stooping the wnr and position of the secession party of Kentucky. Furthermore, the position is in itself treasonahle. Hence we denounce and oppose it." In yourself in favor not merely of opposing "the polition policies of the Administration" but at the same time "of prosecuting the war with the utmost vigor upon the rebels in arms against the government of the United States until the rebellious States will negotiate for peace on terms by which the whole Union tucky? There is no reason of so much as a can be preserved." This is the position of feather's weight. the Union party of Kentucky. Furthermore, the position is in itself patriotic and wise. Ilence we approve and advocate it. And, neighbor, we assure you we hail with no little satisfaction your return to this position, if you indeed have returned in good faith to the position, as we will not permit ourselves to doubt without further and especial reason; on the contrary, we shall hope rather that henceforward your devotion to the position will he nll the more strenuous on account of your temporary defection from it. We have said the position now endorsed by our neighbor is the position of the Union party of Kentucky. Our readers are well aware of this; hut, for the sake ot putting in a new light the complete identity of the platform of the Union men of Kentucky with the platform of the conservatives of the North, we heg here to reproduce the Resolutions adopted by the General Assembly ot Keatucky at the late session and re-adopted by the late Union State Resolved, That our institutions are assailed by an armed rebellion on one side which can only be met by the sword; and on the other by unconstitutional acts of Congress, and startling usurpations of power by the Executive, which we have seen by experiment can be corrected by the ballot-box. Policy, as well as principle, requires that Kentucky shall await the process of reform, which is slow but sure, and relrain from all unlawful and unconstitutional acts which have already brought terrible. tional acts which have already brought terrible calamities upon the country; whilst we invoke the aid of all patriotic meu to avert the evils that threaten our free institutions.

2. Resolved, That this General Assembly declares, as before it has oftentimes declared, that the State of Kentucky hath ever been, and is, loyal to the Government of the United States of America, and is determined to maintain that loyalty against both domestic and foreign 3. Resolved, That this General Assembly recognizes a manifest difference between any administration of the government and the government itself. The one is transitory, limited in duration only to that period of time for which the officers elected by the people are charged with the conduct of the same; the other is permanent, intended by its founders endure forever.

4. Resolved, That this General Assembly

now, in the exercise of its right to differ in opinion with the National Executive, enters its solemn protest against the proclamation of the President of the United States, dated 1st of January, 1863, by which he assumes to emancipate all slaves within certain money to prosecute the war against rehellion is States-holding the same to be unwise, unconstitutional, and void.

5. Resolved, That this General Assembly

declares that the power which has recently been assumed by the President of the United States, wherehy, under the guise of military necessity, he has proclaimed and extended martial law over States where war did not exist, and has suspended the writ of habeas corpus, is unwarranted by the Constitution, and its tendency is to suhordinate civil to military authority, and to subvert constitution.

6. Resolved, That this General Assembly tors would destroy this government by their declines to accept the President's proposition for emancipation, as contained in his proclamation of 19th of May, 1862. Resolved, That this General Assembly king it so weak as to offer no resistance to the deems it proper further to declare, that it, to-gether with all the loyal people of the State, would hail with pleasure and delight any manstation of a desire on the part of the seceded | same object by different means. The lion's States to return to their allegiance to the gov- skin has proved too short, force has been mable ernment of the Union, and would, in such to shatter the government, and now they resort event, cordially and earnestly eo-operate with event, cordially and earnessly co-operate with them in the restoration of peace, and the pro-curement of such guarantees as would give craft what has been denied to their more

10. Resolved, That, in the judgment of this General Assembly, a convention should be called for the purpose of proposing such amendments to the National Constitution as experience has proved to be necessary to maintain ence has proved to be necessary to mainta its founders; and to that end we affirm and adopt the resolutions recommending a call for convention of the United States, approve January 25, 1861.
11. Resolved, That the laws of this State nust be maintained and enforced, and that is the duty of the constituted authorities o he State to see to it that by all constitutions means this indispensable end shall be main those in arms. Such is the platform of the Union party o Kentneky, containing within itself an express ecognition of the justness of the position of proposition, and no one has differed he Demoernts and conservatives of the North nore widely with the authorities than we of which the platform sketched by the Rock have, but that right, like all others, may be Island Argus, and endorsed by our neighbor abused and in its exercise lead to rebellion. It exhibits a fair statement. The platform of the is the abuse of this right that has made so Union party of Kentucky is thus the platform many traitors, and those who would now reof the conservatives of the Union at large. ANOTHER BOLD SOLDIER GIAL.-Lieutenant Garraty, of Park Barracks, brought to our office last evening a young girl in Federal uniform, who was arrested by Sergeant Murray, of the Patrol Guard, yesterday, near the railroad. She states that her name is Lizzie Compton; her parents died wheu she was an infant in Anderson county, Tennessee, and strangers brought her up. She fared very well until the rebellion broke out, when she was living with Elijah Schermerhorn, who was a furious secessionist, and has since joined the Confederate army. Lizzie was true to the Union, and with female determination on all occasions asserted her loyalty, until the man attempted to punish her for her fidelity, when she left her home and found her way to a Federal regiment, the Second Minnesota, we think. For the last six months Lizzie has been known as Jack, and, although not more than sixteen years old, has gone through a great deal of service. Col. Mundy, commanding this post, proposed to her to resume the habiliments of her sex and take a position as hospital attendant, but she refused and reiterates her determination "to die before she wears anything else but Uncle Sam's uniform, until the war is over." In this resolve she seems inflexible and says she can die but once. She has a pleasant face, intelligent cyes, and dimpled cheeks, and is at present domiciled at the Park Barracks. Her conproachable, and she feels perfect confidence in being able to protect herself. What future disposition will be made of her has not ye been determined. We shall at this rate soon have a battalion of female recruits. Wood's THEATRE.—The success of Mr. Owen last evening was complete; his polished style and irresistible humor captivate his auditors, and, while he convulses them with laughter he "never oversteps the modesty of nature. To-night he appears as Dr. Pangloss in the sterling old comedy of the Heir at Law, and as Horatio Spriggins in the farce of Forty Winks, two of his best characters, which we advise every lover of good comic acting to witness.

Mrs. Cozzens, a lady having an interesting little boy about eighteen months old arrived in this city yesterday, from Murfree boro, en route North to sojourn during the war. Her husband is in the rebel army, and she has suffered every privation peculiar to the Confederate limits, and is now destitut of means. She desires some good family to adopt the child before she leaves the city. She is now at Barracks No. I.

The Circuit Court met yesterday morning, Ilon. P. B. Muir presiding. The following Grand Jury was empanneled: William Kendrick, Foreman; J. B. Smith, Thomas E. Wilson, W. A. Richardson, J. W. Henning, J. Crabb, George Swope, J. Burks, J. McGill Robinson, A. Rawson, J. T. Moore, W. A. Davis, J. W. Prather. J. T. Gaar, J. A. Dickman, and Ed. Gardner.

TO BE SENT BEYONG THE LINES -The following ladies were notified yesterday to pre pare to go within the Confederate lines by the 13th inst.: Mrs. Charles Johnson, wife of Lieut. Col. Johnson, A. A. G. to Geu. Bragg; Mrs. Susan Burns, wife of Captain Jas. Burns, of the Confederate army; and Mrs. Joyes, wife of Judge Joyes, formerly of this city.

MAN KILLEO. - We learn that a man in the employ of Barton & Robinson, on the canal, met with a horrible death yesterday morning The derrick with which they were raising stones fell upon him, cutting the unfortunat man in two, and serionsly injuring several others. We did not learn any names.

The wife of Frank Bonner, of the Fourth Kentucky Cavalry, was thrown from a wagon, in New Albany, on Saturday evening, breaking her lower jaw in two places and cutting her face severely. She lies in a very crit-Ical condition.

A brakesman named Milton Gilmore was killed on the Louisville, New Albany, and Chicago Railroad on Saturday. While in the act of passing from one car to another he fell between the cars, and was cut in two.

A man named Hezekiah Wilshire, from Louisville, was swindled out of forty-eight on Sunday afternoon.

John B. Foreman was sent across the river yesterday with instructions to take up his residence there during the war, and not return, on penalty of death, should be violate the order.

George Ash, a deserter from the rebel army, was released from custody yesterday, upon taking the oath, and will be required to report to headquarters daily until further o:-

A detachment of soldiers from Evansville captured a rebel soldier at Tobacco New Albany on the Big Grey Eagle yesterday.

George Allen and Thomas Brown were released from the Military Prison yesterday, having taken the oath and given their word of honor to report daily until further orders.

George Williams, a lawyer of Hancock county, was arrested on Saturday at llawesville, and brought to this city yesterday morning. He is charged with disloyalty.

The troops in Kentucky, other than those belonging to the Ninth Army Corps, are to be organized into the Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by Gen. Hartsuff.

J. H. Covington and Robt. Howe, deserters from the rebel army, were sent across the river yesterday to remain during the war, on penalty of death, should they return.

We are informed that permits are heing issued more freely to ship goods over the Nashville Railroad, and our merchants are availing themselves of it.

A young man named Balden, attached to Wood's Theatre, was arrested last night, by order of Maj. Farris, and confined in barracks No. I.

Pat Nolan, a notorious horse thief, was arrested in Cincinnati yesterday, and will ar

3d. Each hogshead to weigh not less than pounds, and should not weigh more than 400 pounds net. 4th. The cask should be substantial, well coped, and of thoroughly seasoned timber. 5th. The classes for "five hest" and ,"three best hogsheads" are open to Tennossee, Illi-nois, and Indiana. All the other classes are onfined to the growth of Kentucky.

6th. No hogshead can take more than one premium; the "best prized" class, however, is an exception to this rule; this class is intended as a sweepstake, and of course is open to every 7th. None other than the growth of 1865 an compete for these premiums Although the high price of tobacco has aused much of the produce of last year to be

Chicago furnishes more cases partaking f the sensational character, and of greate dollars by the confidence game, near the Ohio | magnitude, than, perhaps, any other city and Mississippi Railroad depot, in Cincinnati, the United States. At the present time th papers of that city are devoting whole columns to a clerical embroglio, and the Times gives full-length portraits of Rev. Elijah Hager and Mrs. Sarah E. White, the principal actors. Of another page we find the details of a great ooisoning case, in which Mrs. Frank C Loomis attempted to poison her husband, in which some curious domestic disclosures are made.

LOUISVILLE THEATRE.-Miss Julia Daly re peats the part of Pamelia in the comedy o Our Female American Cousin to-night, having commenced an engagement last evening in the same character, which she performed with Landing Sunday night. battle on Saturday, it was thought, would be severely opened by the rebels.

New York, May 4, 8 30 A. M.

The Tribune has just issued the following extra:

"Our news by mail from the Rappahannock is up to Sunday morning. At that time our left wiag was in possession of Fredericksburg and of the first line of redoubts on the hill behind it, and was feeling its way to the second line. The river was crossed and the redoubts earried with great ease and very slight loss of life. The rebels had marched away in the direction of Chancellorsville to attack our right wiag there posted, leaving at first 10,000, but subsequently not more than from 5,000 to 7,000 men in their works as was ascertained by a reconnoissance from Lowe's balloon.

The Tribune has just issued the following and that the even earle of a kind and beneficent government bave no hours that they can call their own. About one o'clock on the morning of the 27th inst. a force of cavalry, under command of Col. L. D. Watkins, moved out on the Columbia pike. The following regiments were represented: The 7th Ky., Major Vimont; the 6th Ky., Lieut. Col. Rickliff Cooper; and General Granger's escort, in all about 400 men. Dear Sir: in February, 1861, I was affiliated with the singar diabotes, and for five ; months I passed more than two gullons of water in 24 hours. I was obliged to get up as often as ten or twelve times during the night, and in five months I lost allout fifty ponues in weight. Furing the month of Ji ii, 1861, I produce two bottles of Constitution Water, and in two days after using it I experienced relies, and after taking two bottles I was entirely curse, as on nier regaining my usual good health.
